

Leaders hold crisis talk

The chief executives of south London's Chambers of Commerce are meeting this week to discuss the financial crisis.

The closed summit meeting has been called by South London Business, with the aim of responding to the Mayor of London's proposals for regeneration.

Business leaders will also discuss how to progress the Listen to Business campaign.