SUPPORT SERVICE

LAUNCHED BY SOUTH LONDON BUSINESS

Need support for your new business but don't know where to turn for help? Or is your company established but looking for the boost you need to survive and strengthen through the difficult economic conditions?

Whatever your company's needs, a new package of support services launched by South London Business will give you the help you need.

To support growth in south London's economy, we have launched a wide-ranging package of services include business reviews, clinics and workshops, specialist advice and coaching.

The initiatives are designed to meet the needs of both budding entrepreneurs and existing businesses.

Ross Feeney, SLB's Director of Business Support, says:

"In this challenging economic climate existing businesses need support and budding entrepreneurs need encouragement and support to set up new businesses. Budget cuts in the public sector have resulted in a reduction in the amount of support businesses can access at no charge, so we have worked hard to put together a comprehensive package of support that is accessible, effective and, importantly, good value."

For start-ups, there are pre-start business clinics, offering advice on turning that great idea into a profitable business, and start your own business workshops covering, business, marketing, finance and business planning.

Other services we offer include a business review, business growth workshops (covering management, sales, finance and HR), English for Business workshops, specialist business advice on setting up a social enterprise plus Supply for London, which helps companies to get ready to win contracts.

SLB also provides in-house business coaching, a bespoke one-on-one advice service to support your business. Specialist advisers can help with business planning, marketing, sales and business development, environmental performance and efficiency savings, HR and exist strategies.

Mike Ellis, SLB's senior business advisor, says:

"With pre-start support from £30+VAT per hour and business advice from £50+VAT per hour, we can provide valuable and cost effective support."
