SEMINAR

BUILDING BUSINESS IN THE NEW ECONOMIC WORLD-EMPLOYMENT ASPECTS

Many businesses are finding that, in today's economic climate, savings still need to be made but further redundancies will jeopardise the core skills they need to retain, both for business now and looking ahead.

What are the options open to you and what are the employment law implications?

Topics Covered

This seminar will explore:

- Temporary stoppages: unpaid leave, foregoing salary, sabbaticals and lay offs
- Reducing hours: short time working, increasing holidays, overtime bans
- Reducing pay: pay freezes, reducing pay and benefits, salary sacrifices and deferral
- Reducing numbers: withdrawing job offers, deferring start dates, redeployment, training and early retirement
- Using other non-employee options such as consultancies or contracting out

Who Should Attend?

This seminar is aimed at both businesses and individuals. The emphasis will be on practical ideas and solutions, using management skills to reduce the risk of expensive and time-consuming unfair dismissal or discrimination claims. For individuals, the benefit will be an increased understanding of legal rights and options.

We very much hope that you will be able to join us.
